Dr. Oops was a careless inventor. One day, he wanted to invent a robot to play with himself. But he was a careless inventor, therefore every time his inventions were broken.

First, Dr. Oops used a saw to cut the wood. Then, he folded a piece of metal. Though he was tired, he still wanted to finish making the robot.

Finally, the robot was done.

'What's wrong with the robot?! It has three hands! And one leg!' said Mr.

Right. Mr. Oops said, 'Oh! That is just a little problem. Don't worry.' He tried to control the robot. However it couldn't walk! Mr. Right looked angry and said, 'Let me repair the robot!' He took the robot and left.

Finally, Mr. Right returned with the robot. The robot had two hands and two legs now. Mr. Oops was grateful. He went home happily with his new robot.
